Superior to Speedy Villistan.
Reports here give good cause for belife that thus fur the American troopera have proved themselves the superiors in speed and endurance over the famous Villa bandits. There is moreover centidence here that the cavalry will continue its good work for at least two or three weeks, by which time it is possible that new organizations can be thrown into the chass.
The headquarters officers are all the more proud of the cavalny's record because they began the most recent phase of the chase after one of the longest, hardest rides an American cavalry command has ever made. The men still in camp here express growing impatience to mount and start
